ALREADY the Canadian Conservatives are seeking to head off the expected movements of their opponents. The government organ at Toronto, the Empire, is especially quick to brand as treason any attempt to undo the work of the late Sir John Macdonald. This argument was used in the recent Dominion election campaign. What effect it had is uncertain. It might have frightened some weak-kneed Liberals, while it undoubtedly confirmed others in their opposition to a man and a policy, which depended upon such a chief for success. Now that the chief champion of that policy is removed from the field of action, his followers will wield his weapon with less effect. The Liberals of Canada will be very likely to resent this attack upon their motives in advance of any overt action. The Toronto Globe (Liberal) holds that as Liberalism is now in control of all the separate provinces of the Dominion, with one or two unimportant exceptions its triumph at Ottawa is merely a question of a few months. It believes that Sir John Macdonald's system of government and policy will die with him.

If those who think the Nevada State Board of Trade is accomplishing nothing would read the papers closely they would find that much has been done already and that more is to follow. The State at large is attracting more attention in the papers of the East now than ever before in its history. We are being talked about more and favorably commented upon, and that is bound to lead to good results in the near future. Nevada potatoes are in demand now all over the United States, when two years ago it was not generally known that the State could produce a spud, or anything else but a chunk of quartz or a horn-toad.

THE report that Balmaceda's torpedo-boats Lynch and Condell have attempted to bombard Pisagua tends to disprove the report that the Revolutionary steamer Magallanes attacked and crippled them recently at Valparaiso.

THE Esmeralda is getting enough coal at Panama to take her to Chili. She is needed there, as with her speed and armament she is better than the other Revolutionary ships qualified to cope with Balmaceda's torpedo-boats.

THE San Francisco Post of the 6th inst. devotes one page to Caudelaria and its mines, and makes interesting reading.

PIOCHE RAILROADS.

Narrow Gauge Railroad to Connect With the Mines.

The first narrow gauge railroad in Nevada was built by Captain Page in 1872, and run from the mines in Pioche to Bullionville, a distance of 21 miles. When it was built, all the rails and rolling stock and other material had to be transported from Salt Lake City to Pioche by team, a distance of 225 miles, but the road was built and put in operation in short order, too, by Captain Page, who was a stirring, enterprising man. Now W. S. Godbe seems to be emulating his example, and the Salt Lake Tribune has the following concerning his operations there. It says:

From Pioche, Nevada, westward there, within a radius of fifty miles, there are at least 100 mines, more or less developed, from which the reduction works at Pioche can draw as soon as transportation facilities are provided. This is a fact that has been occupying the attention of W. S. Godbe and his Pioche Consolidated Company for quite a while. They realize that a narrow gauge road to tap these various mines will be the means of bringing ores to their smelters and mill, so they are quietly engaged in building the road. Every day, almost, rails and spikes are being shipped from Salt Lake City to Milford and then hauled to Pioche. For this road 30-pound steel rails are being used, and a Shay locomotive is already ordered and will soon be at Milford. Then twenty-five cars are being built in this city for stocking the road. The first road to be built extends from Pioche to the smelters and on to the Day mine, making a total of fifteen miles of road. But with so many mines beyond the Day property, the company does not intend to stop at the Day mine, but the road will most probably be pushed on to take in other districts and in the end build up quite a system, which in time may reach out towards the lines of road, which some of the various California companies organized to build eastward will want to connect with. It looks very much as if the Union Pacific will find a pretty extensive track to connect with at Pioche, if they long delay the building of the Pioche extension from Milford.

SAM HOUSTON'S WIFE.

The Romantic Story Related by a Venerable Squaw.

How the Great Hunter Tricked an Indian Rival in Order to Secure His Indian Bride—His Loyalty to the State.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who has been making a tour of the reservations of the Kiowas, Comanches and Wichitas in that part of the Indian territory adjacent to the Pan-Handle, made the acquaintance of "Granny Houston," a venerable Indian woman who claims to be the widow of Gen. Sam Houston, the Texas patriot. "We were ushered," says the correspondent, "into a small wigwam, in the center of which sat the oldest living representative of the southwestern tribes, a small, shriveled creature, whose skin resembled a bag of leather, but whose eyes contained a surprising lustre, considering that she had reached her one hundred and ninth year. She extended her hand when we entered, but did not attempt to rise from the well-worn panther hide upon which she rested. Granny Houston is influential among the Wichitas, and makes 'heap good medicine,' although it is pretty generally believed that she is Cherokee by birth, and was adopted in her youth by the hostile Wichitas, who carried her off one of their raids. "At my desire, Cora Caruth, a full-blooded Wichita maiden who had been educated in the east, plied the old lady with questions and interpreted the answers for our benefit. From Cora's interpretation we framed the following story, commencing from the time that 'White Moon,' as she was then called, says she met the Texas patriot, when camped with the tribe on the Canadian river, close to the present site of Webster's Falls:

"The braves were over in Texas on a big hunt, and White Moon was in front of the old chief's wigwam stretching and otherwise curing a various assortment of hides and furs for her father. The head chief was a great hunter, and kept his only daughter in constant employment. One forenoon, when thus engaged, a large white boat, containing a white man and three Cherokees, landed within a few paces of White Moon. The former was dressed in buckskin, and had long hair and bright eyes. When he observed the girl he left his companions, and smiling upon her, addressed her in Cherokee.

"The other squaws then came forward to greet the strange Indians, and soon cooked a large meal of turtle and deer meat which the visitors appeared to thoroughly enjoy. After eating, White Canoe, as he was called by the Cherokee comrades, placed a gold chain around White Moon's neck and called her his little wife. Two days afterward the white man took the Indian girl in his boat on a hunting and fishing trip. "But there was a rival to White Moon's hand in the person of Little Wolf, an unscrupulous savage. The old chief, to settle the dispute in a peaceable manner, and anxious to keep on friendly terms with the young warrior who had great influence in his tribe, made the following proposition, which was in every respect unfavorable to White Canoe.

"Each contestant was to go to war alone against the Cheyennes, with whom the Wichitas were at variance, and the first who returned with the enemy's scalp and arrows would then and there wed the chieftain's daughter. Little Wolf yelled with triumph; he knew that White Canoe would not be likely to take a scalp even under the circumstances. White Canoe remembered to have passed through a settlement of Cherokees some weeks previous, among whom he had observed various war trophies captured from the Cheyennes and Arapahoes. He rode directly to the point and purchased a full paraphernalia, including what he afterward represented to the old chief as a dead Indian's war horse. Before the return of Little Wolf, White Moon and White Canoe danced on the bull hide and were united.

"Granny Houston then told the story of their wedded bliss, how they passed many moons together—White Canoe hunting and fishing, while she made a home for him in their wigwam. But this Eden was suddenly broken into by white strangers, who came to tell Houston of the outrages of the Mexicans on his people, and leaving his cattle and skins in her possession, he rode south to fight in the war of Texas independence.

A King's Bravery.
King Humbert, of Italy, has been awarded a gold medal by the state commission "for civil valor," the occasion being the collapse of a house in Rome last January. His majesty climbed down a rickety ladder into the cellar ahead of everyone else and assisted in rescuing several persons who were badly injured from the ruins. To one poor fellow that was pinned down for hours by heavy timbers he gave wine and verbal solace, and to another man who feebly tried to thank him he answered: "Don't talk now, it will make you worse." The only moment when he seemed to think of anything but the scene around him was when he ordered a message to be sent to the queen, who was awaiting luncheon for him, not to be uneasy as he might not be able to return for some hours. The king did not leave the spot until all were brought out alive.

PENelope—"I must telegraph Emily my answer." Helen—"What shall you say?" Penelope—"Yes." Helen—"You can send ten words for the same money." And Penelope wired as follows: "I have decided to do as you have requested me."—N. Y. Evening Sun.

"I SHALL die happy," said an expiring husband to his wife, who was weeping dutifully at his bedside, "if you promise not to marry that object of my unceasing jealousy, your cousin Charles." "Make yourself quite easy, love," said the expectant widow, "I am engaged to his brother."—Rochester Talisman.

NEW CURE FOR LA GRIPPE.

The Effect on a Boston Drummer of the Woman with the Yardstick.

I have read with some interest the different methods of curing diseases, some by regular physicians of the allopathic, others of the homeopathic and others of the mind school, but I can hear all this by an experience I went through about a year ago in Columbus, Ga., says a writer in the Boston Globe.

I was there canvassing for a New York publishing house. With all the rest of mankind I had la grippe.

I left Atlanta, Ga., at noon, Jan. 13, 1890, and arrived in Columbus, Ga., toward evening. Feeling the effects of the malady come on, I took about twenty grains of quinine during the day, and toward evening I was fairly crazed with the drug.

On arriving at Columbus I went to the boarding-house of Mrs. —, a kind-hearted old woman, full of southern hospitality but not quite as lame as the average Boston girl. I told the good woman that I felt very ill and asked her to do for me what she could.

She assigned me to a room and I retired at once. She brought me a quart pitcher full of sage tea, and in a short time I perspired freely. Yet my breath seemed to get short all the time, and I became thoroughly alarmed. There I was, far away from friends and acquaintances, with no one but this strange woman near me.

I raised myself half up in bed and with faltering voice said: "Mrs. —, I think I am going to die this very night, and I want to ask a favor of you; in case I should be taken away please do not send me to the public morgue. Go to an undertaker, buy me a cheap coffin and keep me here until some of my friends come. Here is my pocketbook and the address of my family."

The woman looked at me pitifully, nodded her head, and then left me, as I thought, for the night.

In about thirty minutes, however, she returned with a yardstick in her hand, saying: "I went across the street to Mr. Watkins'. I told him you were a little cripple, likely to die, and you wanted a coffin. He said if you would take one without paint, and if he could squeeze you into a boy's size, he would let you have one for six dollars."

With that she laid the yardstick on and remarked: "It will take five feet two inches."

What the sage tea had not brought out faith or yardstick cure did. I never sweated so in all my life. I saw eternity in all its ghastly uncertainty, and I truly believe that this was the crisis in my sickness.

In about three days I was up again, and the only man that felt sorely disappointed was Mr. Watkins because he could not squeeze me into that "boy's size, without paint, for six dollars." This was the way I was cured of la grippe.

EXPENSE OF TRAVEL.

The Reason We Are Obligated to Pay High Railroad Fares.

The first obvious reason for the difference in passenger fares is a difference in the kind of service rendered, says the Forum. Continental Europe pays two-thirds as much as America or England for a first-class ticket. India pays one-third as much as America or England for a first-class ticket. The difference is seen in both quality and in quantity of service. In India express trains rarely run at a greater speed than twenty-five miles an hour. In Germany and France their speed ranges from twenty-five miles to thirty-five miles an hour, and only in exceptional instances is more than forty miles an hour made. In the United States and in England the maximum speed rises as high as fifty, or, in exceptional instances, sixty miles an hour. With regard to the comfort of the cars in different countries, there is more room for difference of opinion; there can be no doubt that the average traveler in the United States, or even in the English third-class car, fares better than he would in the corresponding class on continental railroads, and infinitely better than the bulk of travelers in British India. No rates, however, would induce an American to be content with Austrian third-class accommodation, or to tolerate that which is furnished the average Hindoo traveler.

There is a second reason of even greater importance, though it is less obvious at first sight. This is the difference in the number of trains. Taking into account density of population and amount of travel, Europe has more trains than India, America or England more than continental Europe. If there are five hundred travelers daily who wish to use a certain line in India, the authorities give them but one or two trains a day. They are thus able to secure very large train loads; and as the train, rather than the passenger, is the unit for many items of expense, the sacrifice of public convenience in the matter of hours of travel is a source of economy for the railroad. For a given number of people who can use railroads, Austria provides more trains than India, Germany more than Austria, England more than Germany, and the United States more than England. Each concession to the public convenience in this matter involves a loss which must be paid for somewhere.

Kangaroos in Australia.

A curious fact in connection with the effect of the progress of civilization comes from Australia. It appears that in the older parts of that country the kangaroo is practically exterminated. In Victoria the kangaroos formerly outnumbered the sheep in the proportion of two to one, and old shepherds say that it was not an uncommon thing to see the sheep and the kangaroo feeding together upon the plains, as many as two or three thousand kangaroos frequently accompanying a flock of a thousand sheep. The reduction in the number of kangaroos has materially affected the possibilities of profit on sheep farms, as will be seen from the fact that a "station" which, in 1850, could barely graze five thousand sheep, can now be made to carry forty thousand without any danger of being overstocked.

The Friday Superstition.

The governor of a southern state is in correspondence with the governors of all other hanging states, hoping to make an arrangement by which no one shall be hanged on Friday. It is thought that if other days shall be selected the superstition which generally attaches to Friday will soon pass away.

Pure Blood

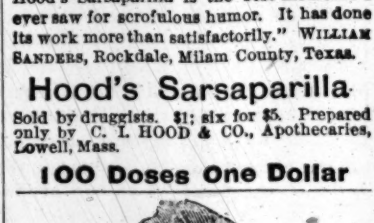

Is absolutely necessary in order to have perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier, quickly conquering scrofula, salt rheum, and all other insidious enemies which attack the blood, and undermine the health. It also builds up the whole system, cures dyspepsia and sick headache, and overcomes that tired feeling.

Scrofula Sores.
"My adopted boy, aged 14 years, suffered terribly from scrofula sores on his leg, which spread till they at one time formed one great sore from the calf of his leg up to his thigh, partially covered with scab, and discharging matter continually. The muscles became contracted so that his leg was drawn up and he could hardly walk. We tried everything we could hear of, without success, until we began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In just a month, after he had taken two-thirds of a bottle, the sores entirely healed, his leg is perfectly straight, and he

Pimples.
The old idea was that facial eruptions were due to a "blood humor," for which they gave potash. Thus the old Sarsaparilla contained potash, a drastic mineral, that instead of decreasing, actually creates more eruptions. You have noticed this when taking other Sarsaparillas. It is however now known that the stomach, the blood creating power, is the seat of all vitiation or cleansing operations. A stomach clogged by indigestion or constipation, vitiates the blood, result pimples. A clean stomach and healthy digestion purifies it and they disappear. Thus Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is compounded after the modern idea to regulate the bowels and stimulate the digestion. The effect is immediate. A short testimonial to contrast the action of the potash Sarsaparillas and Joy's, Mrs. C. D. Stuart, of 400 Hayes St., S. F., writes: "I have for years had indigestion. I tried a popular Sarsaparilla but it actually caused more pimples to break out on my face. Hearing that Joy's was a later preparation and acted differently, I tried it and the pimples immediately disappeared."

THE PARK CASE.

The Decision of Judge Cheney on the Writ of Certiorari. Judge Cheney has filed the following opinion in the Park certiorari case: In the District Court of the State of Nevada, Washoe County.

The State of Nevada, Ex-Rel., T. V. Julien, District Attorney, Relator; vs. T. K. Hymers, W. P. McLaughlin and W. H. Pierson, constituting the Board of County Commissioners of Washoe County, Respondents.

Upon the application of relator, an alternative writ of certiorari was issued, without notice to respondents. Upon the return of the writ, the respondents demurred to the sufficiency of the affidavit upon which the writ issued. At the close of the oral argument of the demurrer, the respondents, without waiving their demurrer, filed their answer or the return to the writ, attached to a certified copy of the record sought to be reviewed. During the time given for filing briefs, the relator, upon application, was allowed to amend the affidavit upon which the application was made, and the respondents again demurred to the sufficiency of the amended affidavit, and the cause was submitted upon both demurrer and answer. It appears from the record that the respondents on April 20, 1891, ordered bonds, to the amount of $5,000, to be issued in accordance with an Act of the Legislature approved March 19, 1891, and entitled "An Act to authorize the issuing of bonds for public parks in the town of Reno." At a subsequent meeting of respondents held on the same day, the order of C. C. Powning to take all of said bonds at their face value, was accepted, and the Treasurer of said county was directed to deliver said bonds upon payment of the sum of $5,000 therefor. At the same meeting, C. C. Powning offered to sell what is known as Block "Y," as a site for a park, for the sum of $2,500. This offer was thereupon accepted, and it was ordered "that upon the proper presentation of a deed conveying said Block 'Y' to Washoe county, said C. C. Powning be paid the sum of $2,500 by the County Treasurer out of the fund created by the sale of the park bonds." On the next day the respondents allowed the claim of C. C. Powning for $2,500 for said Block "Y," and before this action was instituted said bonds were delivered, the money derived from the sale thereof paid into the county treasury and said claim of C. C. Powning for $2,500 allowed by respondents as aforesaid, was paid out of the funds derived from the sale of said bonds. It is admitted that the respondents bought and ordered said block "Y" to be paid for without any appraisers being appointed or appraisal made to fix the value thereof in accordance with the ninth subdivision of Sec. 8 of the general act concerning County Commissioners, and it is chiefly on account of there being no appraisal of said land, in accordance with said section, that relator asks to have the proceedings of respondents reviewed and their action in the premises annulled.

By virtue of said act of March 19, 1891, the Board of Commissioners of Washoe county had ample authority to issue, negotiate and sell, at their face value, the bonds which they did issue, negotiate and sell. Its authority and action in issuing and selling the bonds is entirely separate and distinct from the question of its authority or action in buying block "Y." The bonds were ordered to be issued, sold and paid before block "Y" was purchased. The bonds being lawfully issued and sold any action of the Board in expending the money derived from the sale of the bonds could not affect the validity of the bonds. I do not think the claim of relator that said act of March 19, 1891, is unconstitutional, is well taken. Even if that portion which relates to the purchase of certain designated lots of land is void it is separable from and would not invalidate those provisions which authorize the issuance of these bonds. I shall, therefore, consider the action of respondents in purchasing block "Y" as an independent and separate transaction. The sole authority conferred upon the Board by the statute authorizing the issuance of a writ of review, or, as it is more commonly known, a writ of certiorari, is to determine the validity of proceedings already taken. It is therefore, manifest, that the Court is powerless, in this proceeding, to prevent, (and it would therefore be useless to consider) any threatened action of respondents in reference to levying a tax to raise a fund to pay for said bonds. For threatened injuries a different remedy is provided. This single question is then presented: Will a Court, upon the application of taxpayer, in a proceeding of certiorari, inquire into the validity or regularity of the action of a Board of County Commissioners in purchasing and paying for real estate, when it appears that the purchase was completed and money paid out of the county treasury before the proceedings were instituted? The statute only authorizes the issuance of this writ upon the application of a "party beneficially interested." I understand that to mean, upon the application of a person who will be benefited if the action of the Board sought to be reviewed is set aside and annulled. In what manner will the relator be benefited if it should be adjudged that the action of the respondent in buying block "Y" without having the value fixed by appraisers is null and void? The county would still have the deed and Powning would still have the $2,500 paid for the land. No order or decree could be made in this proceeding which would cancel the deed or reconvey the property, or return the money paid therefor to the treasury of the county, or restrain respondents from levying a tax to pay the bonds. Declaring the purchase void and the allowance of the claim illegal would be neither a reason nor excuse for levying or refusing to levy a tax to pay the bonds, which have been sold to persons not parties to this proceeding nor bound by any judgment that could be rendered herein. The material, substantial facts now are that the bonds of the county for $5,000 have been issued and sold, and $2,500 of the money derived from the sale of the bonds has been paid for a block of land to which the county has received and still holds the title. These facts would remain unchanged and the rights and liabilities of the county and the bondholders be unaffected by any judgment that could be properly given in this proceeding. I think the case of State Ex-Rel. Beck v. Board of County Com. of Washoe County, 14 Nev. 66 is conclusive against the right of relator to have the said proceedings of the respondents reviewed. It is therefore ordered that the demurrer to the amended application be sustained and that the writ of review heretofore issued herein be quashed. A. E. CHENEY, District Judge. June 5, 1891.

THE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The Closing Exercises To Take Place Next Week—Miss Quail's Successor Chosen. Bishop Leonard of Bishop Whittaker's School for Girls, has engaged the services of Mrs. B. F. Layton of Virginia to take charge of the Musical Department, vice Miss Quail, who takes her departure on the 20th for New York.

Mrs. Layton is a fine instrumentalist and vocalist. She is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music, and for years has been a very successful teacher on the Cornstock, and her musical ability is well known all over the coast. No better selection could have been made. The following letter from Bishop Whittaker to Bishop Leonard, received a few days since, recommends Mrs. Layton very highly, and is here given in full to show that the good Bishop Whittaker still retains a warm place in his heart for the welfare of the school over which he presided for so many years:

DIOCESE OF PENNSYLVANIA, EPISCOPAL ROOMS, 1102 Walnut St., PHILADELPHIA, May 23, 1891. MY DEAR BISHOP: I am sorry to hear that Miss Quail is going to leave the school in Reno at the end of this term; sorry on every account, on her's and yours and for the school. But I understand she is going, and the next thing will be to supply her place. I want to say that there is a woman in Virginia City who is more competent to take her place than any other whom I know. It is Mrs. B. F. Layton. She is a very capable woman in every respect; a fine performer, an excellent teacher, a good church woman, smart, enterprising, trustworthy. I can commend her without reserve. I know her well and will endorse her. Faithfully ever, O. W. WHITTAKER.

Rev. Bishop of Nevada and Utah. The school is just now closing a very successful term, and the examinations are now going on. The closing exercises proper will take place next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and will no doubt be largely attended.

HONEY LAKE.

What One Man Can Accomplish If He Has the Snop.

Ben Levett, the Honey Lake water man, is in Reno to-day. Mr. Levett says the outlook for crops was never better in Honey Lake than this year. The fruit crop will be large and exceptionally fine. A larger acreage of grain than ever before seen has been put in this year and the hay crop will be immense. Mr. Levett is pushing his irrigation scheme, for at this time he says he can show the finest tract of land with water on it that can be seen anywhere on the coast, and invites settlers to come and inspect the property. Those looking for homes cannot do better than visit Honey Lake Valley and see what water will do for the country. Mr. Levett possesses all the requirements so essential necessary to success in this life—ambition and progressive ideas—and his work will be appreciated by generations to come, for he is laying the foundation for the reclamation of the greatest section of country on the coast, that will in five years be the prosperous homes of thousands.

BUTTER FOR THE PALACE HOTEL.

Hon. Francis G. Newlands Giving Encouragement to a Nevada Product.

The Palace Hotel of San Francisco, through the influence of Hon. Francis G. Newlands, is now using about one-third of the butter produced by the Gould Creamery. Mr. Newlands visited the creamery, and saw at a glance that it was all Mr. Gould had ever claimed for it. He also said that the facilities for making first-class butter were unequalled anywhere on the coast, and after sampling several churnings and sending a case to the Palace, he unhesitatingly gave Mr. Gould orders to send his butter to that caravanserai. So it will be seen the Reno creamery is getting in the swim. The Gazette expects to see the butter made at the Gould Creamery on the tables of every first class hotel and in every well regulated family of the Bay City within six months.

Escape of Prisoners.

The report that prisoners have been and are constantly escaping from that malignant gaol, Liver complaint, is fully corroborated by the self-liberated captives. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are, they say, the means by which they get rid of their fetters, few altogether avoid the bondage of this ailment, and few are unacquainted with its signs, viz.: pain through the right side and shoulder blade, bitter tongue, yellowness of the eyeballs and skin, sour breath, sick headache, dyspepsia and constipation. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters puts a prompt period to these, brings them to a full stop in short order. Whether the trouble is chronic or temporary, this medicine is equally effective, regulating the liver and bowels thoroughly. It is like-wise a sovereign remedy for rheumatism, kidney complaint, malaria, heartburn and nervousness.

A Generous Offer.

I would give anything for relief from these headaches. It isn't necessary for a friend, a dollar expended for Cephaline will bring you complete relief. All drug stores.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

MASONIC.

The Business of the Session of the Grand Lodge, Well Done.—The Election of Officers for the Ensuing Year. The Grand Lodge of F. & A. M. yesterday afternoon elected Mr. W. Frank Bell Grand Master for the ensuing year, transacted a good deal of routine business and called off until 9:30 o'clock this morning. Last evening Reno Lodge No. 13 entertained the visiting brothers. The hall was beautifully decorated with flowers by the ladies of the Eastern Star and filled with a merry throng of ladies and gentlemen who enjoyed themselves in social intercourse and dancing to the music of Frederick's Orchestra until nearly 12 o'clock, when a splendid supper was served, and to the ladies of the Eastern Star the lodge is indebted for that pleasing part of the reception. The members of Reno Lodge are placed under last obligations to the ladies for the part they carried in the entertainment of the visitors, in fact, the beautiful decorations, the supper and their untiring efforts to make it pleasant is all heartily due to them, while the lodge itself was a fifth wheel to the other whom I know. The ladies, God bless them, are never found wanting in anything that contributes to the well being and happiness of any member of the fraternity "wherever dispersed around the globe."

The visitors seemed to enjoy the evening, and if it was as pleasant for them as it was to the members, Reno Lodge to contribute to their entertainment, they certainly were well satisfied. TO-DAY'S SESSION. The first business in order this morning was to elect the balance of the officers for the ensuing year, which was done with the following result: J. H. Hubbs, Deputy Grand Master; J. E. Jones, Senior Grand Warden; P. A. Doyle, Junior Grand Warden; H. L. Fish, Grand Treasurer; C. N. Noteware, Grand Secretary. The Grand Lodge returned a vote of thanks to Reno Lodge No. 13 for the attention that had been given to the members during their visit to Reno. The Grand Lodge selected Reno as the place of meeting next year. A resolution was offered and carried unanimously, tending to the Carson & Colorado, the Virginia & Truckee, the Pacific & Nevada and the Southern Pacific Railroad Companies a vote of thanks for courtesies received by the Grand Lodge. Past Grand Master John W. Eckley was invested to install the newly elected grand officers. After installation the Grand Lodge adjourned sine die. BREVITIES. Local and General Intelligence. See 50-cent column for large house for sale or rent. The Board of Regents are in session this afternoon, at the University. The Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias will convene here to-morrow at 12 o'clock. The Homer Index says: Mr. Evans of Reno is in the valley with a large band of cattle, and more to come, having leased Thomas Williams' ranges. Attention is called to the advertisement of Leavitt & Evans for the sale of iron pipe, and those contemplating the building of flumes should read it. "Mr. Barnes of New York" is the next attraction at McKissick's Opera House, on the 15th inst. It will be presented by the Broadway Theater Company. J. Minor Taylor, formerly bookkeeper for John W. Mackey, and State Senator from Storey county in 1881, has become an inmate of the Soldiers Home at Groton, Conn. He is a physical and financial wreck and a mental imbecile. Too Much of a Show—Jack—I know Ethel loved me. Tom—But you had no show with her father, eh? Jack—Oh, didn't I? I had a regular circus with him. That's where the trouble came in. Dress up at John Sunderland's if you want to win the girl. "Say, Teddy, what do they mean by 'double-entry book-keeping'?" "Yer a fine animal to be livin' in the mountains all this time and never found that out. It's when ye get a plug of tobacco on credit and the man charges ye for two. That's what it is."

PERSONALS.

M. Colin of Carson came over from Carson last evening. Professor Orvis Ring returned from California this morning. Lem Allen of Churchill county arrived in Reno last evening. D. W. Balch of Virginia City passed through to San Francisco last night. George T. Mills of Carson was registered at the Riverside hotel last night. Mrs. J. H. McCormick and Miss M. Alt of Reno are visiting Sacramento friends.

Mrs. J. M. Campbell of Virginia City returned home from a visit to Reno this morning. Dr. S. L. Lee of Carson came back from California this morning and went on homeward. General C. W. Borton left last evening for Oakland, where he intends to reside. His family left some days ago for that place. S. W. Knapp, Superintendent of the Salt Lake Division of the S. P. R. R., was a passenger on the east-bound train this morning. Mrs. M. T. Barnett arrived from San Francisco yesterday, and will remain here a while on a visit to her aunt, Mrs. S. Jacobs. Governor Colwell, Attorney General Torgerson and Hon. J. W. Haines arrived last night to attend the meeting of the Board of Regents and the commencement exercises of the State University.

Unlawful Practices.

Complaint is made to the GAZETTE by Hon. G. H. Mills, Nevada's Fish Commissioner, that fish are being caught at the dam below town by heartless and unlawful means. A trap has been found at the dam where fish are caught in large numbers. The cruel grab-hook is also extensively used to catch them. The officers of the county should take steps to arrest and severely punish the miscreants who are guilty of such conduct.

Amended Honorable.

In the local article in yesterday's GAZETTE a blunder occurred in not properly designating the graduates of the Class of '91 in Liberal Arts. It resulted from hasty preparation while the "devil" was howling for copy, and the local sincerely hopes the gentlemen composing the class will pardon him for the mistake made when the "devil" was after him.

Special Meeting.

There will be a special meeting of Amity Lodge No. 8, K. of P., on Thursday evening, June 11th, at 8 P. M. Special work in Amplified Third and entertainment of Grand Lodge. By order of Chancellor, Commander, S. J. HODGKINSON, K. of R. and S.

A Common Sense Remedy.

In the matter of curatives what you want is something that will do its work while you continue to do yours—namely that will give you no inconvenience nor interfere with your business. Such a remedy is Allcock's Porous Plasters. These Plasters are not an experiment, they have been in use for over thirty years, and their value has been attested by the highest medical authorities, as well as by voluntary testimonials from those who have used them. Allcock's Porous Plasters are purely vegetable and absolutely harmless. They require no change of diet and are not affected by wet or cold. Their action does not interfere with labor of business; you can toil and yet be cured while hard at work. They are so pure that the youngest, the oldest and most delicate person of either sex can use them with great benefit.

BARON HAUSSMANN.
The Career of the Energetic Prefect Who Reconstructed Paris.

Baron Haussmann, the creator of modern Paris, through the vast systems of public improvements instituted and carried out by him as prefect of the Seine under Louis Napoleon, was stricken by apoplexy while at dinner on a recent evening, and died in the course of the night, being nearly eighty-two years old. Haussmann was a native Parisian, says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, and grandson of a man who was banished by mistake in 1810 as one of those who in convention voted the death of Louis XVI. He was born March 27, 1809, was educated at the Conservatory of Music, but became an advocate, and after the revolution of 1830 was sub-prefect successively of several departments, and prefect of the Var, the Yonne, and the Gironde under the presidency of Louis Napoleon.

Shortly after the second empire was established Haussmann was made prefect of the Seine, and entered at once in 1853 upon the changes which have made "Haussmannizing" a term to signify the complete transformation of a city from age, dirt, crookedness and squalor to freshness, cleanliness, convenience and splendor. Some have said that the idea of these unexampled improvements in its main outlines belonged to Napoleon III., but the energy and ability with which they were achieved were such as to almost entitle Haussmann to be called great. New boulevards, cutting through and demolishing the ancient and picturesque but narrow and noisome quarters of Paris; great public gardens and open squares replacing nests of wretchedness, splendid rows of buildings, theaters, hospitals, asylums, bridges, fountains and many other accessories of beauty; the making into grand parks the Bois du Boulogne, the buttes de Chaumont, Vincennes and Montsouris; these indicate the character of the work. The grand boulevard of Sevastopol, on both banks of the Seine, the boulevard Malesherbes, and over twenty others were laid out through the old parts of Paris, and one of them preserves his name.

This required an immense expense, notwithstanding the great sums raised by the municipality, with raising more money still by means of unauthorized bonds. At his request the budget of the city was given to the control of the corps legislatif, which spent most of the session of 1869 in examining his accounts. The result was the authorizing of a new loan of fifty-two million dollars, but Haussmann was asked to resign his prefecture, and, refusing to do so, was relieved by imperial decree in January, 1870.

After the fall of the empire he left France for a time, but the public sentiment of his extravagance was not lasting. He returned in 1871 and was appointed director of the Credit Mobilier and brought it into pretty good condition again. Haussmann was made senator under the empire, elected a member of the academy of fine arts, and got the grand cross of the Legion of Honor in 1862. In 1877 he was returned to the chamber of deputies from Ajaccio, leaving Prince Napoleon, and was frequently called upon to defend there his administration of the public works. The municipal council of Paris even voted in 1879 to change the name of the boulevard Haussmann, but finally relented.

THE SPREAD OF ELECTRICITY.
Almost 2,000 Central Station Plants in America.

A very interesting publication has just been put forth by one of the leading electrical companies of this country. It is a large atlas, showing state by state the distribution of electric-lighting central stations and of electric railways, the various plants being marked at each of the towns and cities in which they are installed. The grand totals shown are one thousand nine hundred and eighty-five central station plants and two hundred and forty electric railways, figures which, of course, would be much larger if brought down to later date. A vivid idea is given of the great variety still existing in electrical apparatus by the fact that in such states as New York and Pennsylvania no fewer than sixteen different kinds are running in the stations to produce light and five different kinds for electric railway work.

The tendency during the last five years, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch, has been toward a reduction in the number of "systems," but as fundamental patents expire and the industry is more generally thrown open it is not unlikely there will be as great a variety of dynamos and lamps as there now is of steam engines or of locomotives. These new systems, however, will be sold on a basis of ordinary manufacturing profit, unless radical departures are made, for the time when either a charlatan or a genius could put a "system" together and get nine million dollars for it off-hand has gone by. Up to the present period much of the apparatus has had somewhere in its selling price the items of cash or stock given out to the inventor and of costly experiments that probably led nowhere. In the older branches of electrical industry much of that experimental work has been done forever, and the knowledge of the things that need not be attempted has become common property.

Mr. Edison himself has said that he had three thousand theories about his incandescent lamp, and it is safe betting that he tried them all. It is said that when the first big electric railway was tried at Richmond, at least one hundred "underrunning" trolleys were put to test in a few brief weeks, to say nothing of the new forms of gear, new styles of brushes, new lightning arresters, new switches and other details. In work of that nature money goes like water, but there is no help for it; and in due time there is the reward, for had there been no Richmond in 1858 there would certainly have been no atlas in 1890 with two hundred and forty electric roads, two hundred of which, with nearly another hundred now building, dating from that eventful victory in a great new industry.

"Queer critters, women is," said Uncle Jeb. "When one of 'em starts in to git a man all the others tries to head her off, an' then, soon as she gits him, they all turn round and help her to manage him."—Indianapolis Journal.

LOUIS KRUTZER'S SNAKE.
After Sleeping One Hundred Years It Crawls Out and Is Killed.

Early in January of the present year a woodman engaged in chopping some of the monster oaks in the northern part of the great "Black forest," Germany, and who had built a fire against a large dead log preparatory to partaking of his midday meal, was surprised to see a serpent of gigantic proportions crawl from the log as soon as the rotten wood had got well warmed through. The day was bitter cold and the snake only made a few yards over the frozen ground until his convulsions became smaller and smaller, until he finally ceased to wiggle and quietly coiled up near a large pile of brush.

The sturdy German chopper, who had been more surprised than scared, waited until the creature had become thoroughly benumbed with the cold and then approached and dispatched him with his ax. Measurements showed the slimy creature to be twenty-seven feet six inches in length and nearly fifteen inches through the body in the middle.

Just back of the immense head, which is eleven inches in length and almost as broad, a little gold ring had been put through the skin, relates a St. Louis Republic's correspondent. It was in the form of two rings rather than one, being shaped not unlike a figure 8. One part of the ring was through the skin, while the other was through a hole in a small copper coin bearing date of 1712. One side of the coin was perfectly smooth, with the exception of these letters and figures, which had evidently been cut on it with a pocketknife, the workmanship being very rough: "Louis Krutzer, B. G. O., 1781."

Some of the older inhabitants of the "Black forest" remember hearing their parents tell of "Krutzer, the serpent charmer," and they all unite in declaring that this gigantic serpent was formerly the property of the old "charmer," and that it was at least one hundred and fifteen years old when killed on that cold January day of 1891.

Living Without Working.
It is said that between the island of Madagascar and the coast of India there are sixteen thousand islands, only six hundred of which are inhabited. In any of these islands a man can live and support his family in princely luxury without working more than twenty-five days in the year. In fact, on some of these islands he needn't work at all, as nature provides the food, and no clothes are required.

"August Flower"
"I inherit some tendency to Dyspepsia from my mother. I suffered two years in this way; consulted a number of doctors. They did me no good. I then used Relieved in your August Flower and it was just two days when I felt great relief. I soon got so that I could sleep and eat, and I felt that I was well. That was three years ago, and I am still first-class. I am never Two Days, without a bottle, and if I feel constipated the least particle a dose or two of August Flower does the work. The beauty of the medicine is, that you can stop the use of it without any bad effects on the system. Constipation while I was sick I felt everything it seemed to me a man could feel. I can say, in conclusion, that I believe August Flower will cure anyone of Life of Misery with judgment. A. M. Weed, 225 Belfontaine St., Indianapolis, Ind."
